Museum gets new part-time manager

BY KEVIN VINK
 MVP Staff

After months of looking, the Didsbury and District Historical Society has found and hired a part-time manager to help run the Didsbury Museum.

Frankie Kelly, president of the society, said that though there were many acceptable applicants, she found Joanne Pope to be the best fit.

"She's got wonderful qualifications," said Kelly. "Plus she understands working with people, working with seniors, programming, and making people feel welcome."

Pope also has extensive experience working in both the library and museum systems, and she is also the database administrator for the museum in Caroline.

"You can hear too when you're talking to her; she's passionate about history and museums and working with people."

She added Pope's understanding of social media will also help the museum to gain a broader audience.

Having a part-time paid manager will take some of the load off the volunteers and allow the museum to be open to the public more too, she said.

"We just really feel it will just help the museum for communication, to be open more and to have more contact with the different groups, businesses, schools and the public. That's what we're here for."

The new hours of the museum will be Tuesday to Thursday, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and Saturday afternoons from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

"So this way we have somebody when they're booking the school tours, we have an extra day open, plus we have an extra person," she added.

Pope said that the manager of Caroline's museum saw the open position in Didsbury and suggested she apply.

"I did because I really enjoy working with the Historical Society of Caroline, so I'm really excited to be coming here," said Pope.

The museum volunteers celebrated her first day in Didsbury with a cake last Tuesday, and she joked that her boss in Caroline is going to have to step up her game now.

The work of museums has always held a fascination for her, she said, because she grew up in various places across Canada as her family was involved in the military, and she decided to follow suit in her adult years.

"To see how the families connect, the history, the attraction and love they have for their community and their land.

It's just been wonderful to see that," she said.

"They take ownership of what they have and they're proud of their whole history and that's so incredible to see."

Many of her responsibilities will include designing programming for visitors, volunteer coordination, giving tours, as well as general office duties, she noted.

She will also be taking over some of the responsibilities that Kelly has had for years.

For now though, she is familiarizing herself with the different rooms in the building and the stories behind the artifacts.

"I'm very pleased to be here and I'm really looking forward to getting to know the Didsbury community, and all our visitors and volunteers here at the museum as well," she said.

AG Foods celebrates 25 years and multiple awards

BY KEVIN VINK
 MVP Staff

AG Foods has been a staple in town for 26 years, from providing employment to offering a wide variety of food and goods to Didsbury and area residents.

This is the store's 26th year in operation and it has recently gained recognition in the form of multiple awards from both the AG Foods corporation and the Canadian Federation of Independent Grocers (CFG), says manager Greg Poirier.

The store was awarded with the 2012 Gold Achievement Award for getting a number of consecutive merit awards for things such as cleanliness and presentation, customer service, community involvement and staff training, he notes. The store also got a 25-year achievement award commemorating 25 years with the AG Foods chain.

"This award wasn't for me, it's for my staff," says Poirier. "Without my staff, we could never do what we do with the community. It's a team effort."

AG Foods has played a key role in the community, from sponsorships to donations, he adds, noting that this involvement truly took flight under his guidance, when he took the position of manager 15 years ago.

"When I first came we did some work with the community, but we got more involved when I got here," he says.

"We support most of the community groups as much as possible...we want to show that everyone works with us and we want to make sure we're giving back to the community that's giving to us."

Every May, for example, the store flags certain items and at the end of the month those purchases are tallied and a certain percentage donated to whichever organization has been chosen, he adds.

"We can average $2,000 plus that will go to a group - depending on the year - and we've been doing that for 15 years as well. We actually have a line of groups who want to do it each year," he says.

Though AG Foods still is, and always will be a grocery store, he says many things have changed since he first got into the grocery business as a bag boy at an IGA in Calgary.

"Business is the same in most regards, but the changes have been the growth of the organic and natural foods lines in the store now, and we also have the computerized systems. Everything's been modernized and computerized, where years ago it was just a push-button kind of thing," he says.

"Everything has kept pace with the modernization. We've found that the changes in what people buy now versus what they did 25 to 30 years ago when I started, is a lot of it is fast food now - just grab and go type stuff. People want stuff ready for them because everybody's so much busier now than they were."

Disc dogs jump for joy...and points

BY KEVIN VINK
MVP Staff

The Zero Gravity Disc Dogs organization showed dogged determination last weekend as it kept going with its tournament at the Rosebud Run site, despite the inclement weather, said officials.

Marion Paulson, tournament chairman, said the competition went well, with 22 competitors and 26 teams going head to head to qualify for the World Championship, which will be held in Chattanooga, Tenn. in September.

"The competition went really well except for the weather," said Paulson.

"Saturday was actually quite nice but on Sunday it was raining and a little slippery out there, but we played a lot of short games and kept the disc throws low for the dogs."

There were many divisions and contests, including micro dogs, novice, masters, and open, drawing in competitors across Alberta.

The World Classic Freestyle qualifiers were Angela Ewtushik and her dog Brew, Tracy Luu and Five-O, and Kristen McKenna and Ember.

The World Classic Sport Division qualifiers were Kristen McKenna and Ember, Melanie and Prank, and Angela Ewtushik and Brew.

Judge Andrea Rigler, who hails from Jupiter, Fla., flew up to judge the competition and she said she was pleased with both the competition and the Canadian hospitality.

"It's been really great," said Rigler. "Everyone appears really friendly and eager to learn, everybody's had a really positive attitude, and had a lot of fun with their dogs."

She noted many who attended are new to the disc dog sports and that this was a great opportunity for them to learn from, and network with others in the area.

Rigler said she usually competes back home, and noted a difference between the tournaments she's been to in the past and the Zero Gravity competition.

"Everyone had fun and there was a really great positive energy and positive attitude," she noted.

"And most of the players were looking for feedback on how to do a better job connecting with their dogs and creating success with their dog. I think most of the time at other competitions you see more anxiety and stress and frustration, and we didn't see a whole lot of that here."

It was an overall good weekend of fun and companionship between competitors, she added.

"It was just great fun and positive attitude, and everyone supporting and encouraging each other and having a great weekend with their dogs."

Gardner gets second in international competition

BY KEVIN VINK
MVP Staff

One Carstairs preschooler recently showed her parents and music teacher that musical talent is not restricted to those who have a formal musical education, or even to those who can read and write.

Cadence Gardner, a five-year-old pre-kindergartener who lives outside of Carstairs, composed a piano song called Pony Macaroni as part of her music classes - taken through Music for Young Children (MYC) - earlier this year.

Not only did she get first place out of 572 entries in MYC's Western Canada competition, but she got second place out of 1,302 entries in the international competition, according to her teacher Carol Tucker.

Tucker, who works out of Didsbury, says the MYC program is incredible in how it teaches such young children the rudiments of music theory. She adds that Cadence just started classes last September.

"It blows my mind to see them get up there with those little fingers at the keyboards," said Tucker.

Cadence's mother Lisa, said Cadence and her brother Grayson are always singing when they play and are always surrounded by music, as Lisa is the music teacher at Carstairs Elementary School, and her husband Alex often plays guitar and drums at home in his spare time.

"(Cadence is) very musically inclined," says Gardner. "She just picks up on it and she sings all the time - she's always singing and dancing and tapping rhythms, and so is her brother."

"So although this was really exciting, it didn't come as a surprise, because she's one of those little girls that just takes to music so naturally."

One day after lessons, Tucker sent Cadence home with a package explaining the composition contest by the MYC.

"So she's singing one day in her bedroom and she says 'This is the song I want, Mommy,' and she starts singing it, and I thought I'll give her some time to tinker with that, and then it kind of developed."

Cadence kept singing the same melody, lyrics and rhythm, so Gardner went to the piano to tap it out and figure out the notation.

"I wrote it down for her and had her come and listen to see if that's what she wanted. She corrected me where I didn't have it right, and we just kind of worked through it together," she explains.

"It was definitely inspired and written by her, and of course I had to help her come up with what notes it was and put it down on paper for her because she's five and doesn't write yet."

She adds that she always tells parents at her school that kids learn best through music, and this experience has proven that music really does play a key role in learning.

"It's just neat to see, because sometimes you don't practise what you preach in your own home, so this just validates us as parents because at least it's coming out in our kids."

A week in the life of Didsbury's RCMP

BY KEVIN VINK
MVP Staff

The Police briefs published weekly in the Review are usually the highlights of the work that the Didsbury RCMP perform, and this week, Cpl. Warren Wright and Sgt. Jeff Jacobson decided to take readers through a week in the life of the local police.

Generally, they do not report on domestic disputes or service calls that don't turn up any crime, and only bring up the highlights they think would be of interest to the public.

Through the last week, Didsbury RCMP had a total of 68 calls for service within their jurisdiction, said Jacobson, though this article will focus on those instances that took place in or around Didsbury.

May 23, Thursday

8:30 a.m. - Police received a report of an erratic driver on Highway 582 coming into Didsbury. They sent out a patrol and weren't able to find the vehicle or driver.

8:40 a.m. - Two bikes were stolen from a residence on the 1400 block of 21 Avenue. An officer conducted a patrol, located both bikes, and returned them to the residents.

10:30 a.m. - Police processed a report of a collision, as one driver backed into another's vehicle.

10:33 a.m. - Police received a report of a vehicle being damaged on the Burnt Timber road. The driver had hit a leaf spring on one wheel, leading to some expensive damage.

11 a.m. - Police were requested to perform a welfare check on an individual who wasn't answering their phone or door. Upon arrival, the resident was located inside the home.

4:20 p.m. - Police received a request from another detachment in Richmond, B.C. asking them to obtain a statement on a serious assault file. The assault occurred in B.C.

May 24, Friday

8:45 a.m. - Police received a report in the morning report that Home Hardware employees found lock chains on the back gate cut off. The yard was accessed, but nothing had been taken and the bolt cutters were left behind.

A quantity of furniture was moved and set up in the staging area to leave the compound, which leads police to think the culprits had been startled and got spooked. The cutters are being examined for latent prints.

10:15 a.m. - Police attended a tenant dispute in Poplar Ridge Close. The issue has been referred back to the landlord to handle as it was not considered a criminal matter.

11:36 a.m. - Police attended a domestic property dispute, where individuals were fighting over the ownership of an animal.

Letter to the editor

What is happening to Didsbury minor hockey? What is the Town of Didsbury doing with our ice? Where are our tax dollars going? Why are more kids quitting organized sports? Why are kids told that they can't play in our town? Why is the town renting ice to other towns?

These are the questions I'm looking for answers for from the Town of Didsbury. Over the last few years, the Didsbury Minor Hockey Association (DMHA) has been getting less and less ice.

It's at the point now where we are short of ice for the kids. We keep asking for more and they refuse us. This fall we have the chance to have a pee wee team, made solely of Didsbury kids who want to play in our hometown.

The last three years, all the pee wee players, up to midget level, went to Carstairs' organization to play at this level. There was supposed to be a three-year trial on whether to keep going with Carstairs or bring our kids back to Didsbury.

This was denied by the board from DMHA, mostly because we have no ice and poor planning. This was supposed to be a members' vote and it never happened. If this happened, DMHA would have all its ice back.

We have applied to the board of DMHA to have a pee wee team this fall. Ice time is the huge factor in this, because the Rocky Mountain Athletic Association (RMAA) will not release the pee wee ice to us.

We called the town and were told there is no more ice available. We begged for more ice and we were told to deal with it or call the other organizations renting it. Why is it our job to do that? Being rude and not wanting to help out our kids who want to play hockey is not helpful from the town.

This arena was built by my parents, grandparents and friends, and was donated to the Town of Didsbury. Our taxes help run this facility so our kids can enjoy it. Where is all this ice going that our kids are told to go away?

DMHA has extra money where we will pay more for ice but still are told no. More and more kids quit and are joining in-house hockey. Now they are getting the prime ice times DMHA has had for over 30 years. Since we have kids from Didsbury who want to play pee wee here, why can't we take ice away from the RMAA?

This is our ice time. Our kids don't want to go to another town. Since all Didsbury kids want to play here, why should we share with other towns?

Everyone should call the town and demand to know what's happening to our ice and why our kids are being turned away. How many more kids are going to be turned away? How many are just going to quit? What's the future of our organized sport?

Dan Felker,
DMHA member

Firehouse News: May

I have been getting a lot of harassment from the other firefighters for using the word 'quiet' last month to describe our call volume. The Didsbury fire department has almost quadrupled the calls we had to respond to. This has been largely associated with the extreme hot and dry temperatures during the month of May.

In total there have been 18 calls to date, with the majority of them being grass fires stemming from controlled burns getting out of hand, as well as a barn fire and a train tossing sparks into dry grass. The whole county has been hopping busy putting in hundreds of working hours.

A few members recall a mutual aid grass fire in the Cremona area one afternoon. What was going to be a quick call turned into a very late night with the cleanup not being finished until 3 a.m.

The major problem was that the fire had moved into tall brush and trees, making it very difficult to get equipment anywhere near the flames.

Kyle Leeson

Training for the month has still revolved around pumping water from different water sources like a fire hydrant or another truck nursing to another.

The high school cadets have been working on rolling fire hose. It sounds about as much fun as watching paint dry, but there are many different ways to perform different tasks.

We have a few rookies that are still going through all the important parts of the self-contained breathing apparatuses. If you see a couple of firefighters running up and down the streets by the fire hall in full gear and air tanks, there's no need to worry - it's just the rookies working up a sweat.

BRICKER, David (Dave) Joseph Bricker April 27, 1925 - May 23, 2013

Dave Bricker passed quietly at the Didsbury Hospital on Thursday, May 23, 2013 at the age of 88 years. Dave is lovingly remembered by his family, Phyllis (nee Hughes), devoted wife of 57 years; his three children, Gordon, Ross (Rose) and Joan of Calgary, AB; two grandchildren, Alexa and Kyle; one sister, Grace Hay of Shaughnessy, AB; and extended family members. He was born in Calgary in 1925 to the late Arthur and Emmeline (nee Gowdy) Bricker as the 4th child of a family of 6 children. As a youth, he was a talented baseball pitcher and an avid hockey player. Dave began farming in the Chestermere area when he was in his teens. In 1957, with four head (two that Phyllis owned and two purchased from her father, Jim Hughes) Dave began raising registered Hereford cattle. In 1961 he established the Chestermere Hereford Stock Farm which was later moved to the Hughes family farm in the Didsbury area in 1976. Dave loved music and sang everyday whether it was while working on the farm or singing in church choirs. He enjoyed collecting stamps, travelling, his numerous pets, and watching his favorite Toronto teams play professional hockey and baseball on TV. The family would like to extend a special thank you to the staff of the Acute Care Unit and Unit 4 of the Didsbury District Health Services for their compassionate care of Dave over the past two months. A Memorial Service to celebrate his life was held at the Cremona Congregational Church on Thursday, May 30, 2013. Messages of condolence may be left for the family at www.mylifealternatives.ca.
